AUTOMOBILE AND STREET CAR COLLIDE

A Ford car, owned by Alexander Stephens, of near Blair, and a street car were in collision at the corner of Graceland and Patton streets this morning shortly after 9 o'clock. No one was injured, although the auto was badly damaged and had to be taken to a repair shop.

The machine came out of Patton street and just as it reached the car track it struck the street car. A street car coming from the depot and was but a short distance away and before the machine could be started up or the street car brought to a standstill, there was a collision. The street car struck the Ford squarely in the center and pushed it several feet against the traffic sign in the center of the street. The auto was badly damaged but fortunately no one in it was injured. It was held up a few minutes until the machine could be gotten out of the way.

DANVILLE CLUB IS REPRESENTED

The Danville Rotary Club is represented at the seventh district Rotary convention, which opened at Winston-Salem, N. C., last night by seven or eight of its forty-odd members, and others are expected to go down before the conference closes.

Among those who made the trip from this city are the Rev. Henry Wade DuBois, D. D., first president of the Danville club; President Plummer Wiseman, Secretary John E. Oenry, W. W. Wadell, A. A. Booth, F. Walton Brown, Robert L. Peerman and possible several others. Some of those who made the trip were accompanied by their wives.

The conference will continue today with a program of business sessions, luncheons, dinners, entertainments and something doing every hour. The headquarters of the conference and most of the sessions will be at the Robert E. Lee hotel. The daily luncheons are being held at three or four different dining-halls in order to accommodate the large attendance.

District President Joe Turner whose gifts as an entertainer as well as a leader and organizer have won him wide popularity throughout the three States of Virginia, North and South Carolina, embraced in the address yesterday and a number of other addresses and discussions are on the program for the two days.

Interest in the conference reaches its climax in the election of officers and the choice of the next meeting place. South Carolina is expected to make a bid for the 1923 district conference, that of 1919 having been held at Greenville. The Palmetto State is also due to win the presidency of the conference this year.

Many Danville Rotarians who had hoped to make the trip were prevented by unforeseen developments and engagements of a business sort, but several are expected to go down this morning and see the finish and absorb a little Rotary spirit—a singular procedure, strictly. Those not in the city are expected to bubble over at the deferred bi-weekly luncheon next Tuesday.

RATE-MAKING BUREAUS UNDER STATE OFFICER

JACKSON, Miss., March 21.—The Mississippi House of Representatives took the center of the stage today in the troubled fire insurance situation in this State occurred by the passage of a bill by a legislative investigating committee, by adopting, by a vote of 71 to 49, legislation authorizing the establishment and operation of rate-making bureaus under the supervision of the State commissioner of insurance.

Alleged undue activity by certain fire insurance agents in their efforts to obtain support for this measure was one of the subjects under investigation by the special committee of inquiry named by the House in response to a message from Governor Lee M. Russell in which he charged that a "pernicious" lobby was being maintained in Jackson by what he termed "outlawed" fire insurance interests.

The investigating committee officially was in recess today. No announcement was made as to when its next session would be held, but it generally was expected that the inquiry would be resumed tomorrow with the possibility of a report to the House within the next few days.

"Y" Membership Campaign Begins

In addressing the four competing divisions in the annual membership drive of the Young Men's Christian Association at the Y. M. C. A. hall last night, President J. Jordan urged the workers to spare no effort to complete the canvass in a single day. Indeed, he suggested that 1,500 members should be secured without great difficulty.

Mr. Jordan expressed his conviction that the conditions were never more propitious for such a canvass and that the association was never before so strong and so appealing to young men as today. With this optimistic note the man who has headed the organization which maintains and operates the local association stimulated his associates to extraordinary effort today, and tomorrow also, if necessary.

The fifteenth annual membership canvass, like its predecessors, was inaugurated with an opening supper at which the four competing teams of canvassers were grouped at four long tables, and a fifth group, the boys, assembled under the leadership of Physical Director Savage, at another. As the supper was served, an appetizing supper was served expeditiously by a group of ladies, among whom were many of the best known and most admired young girls of the city, while the devoted married ladies were engaged in the kitchen in preparing and apportioning the food to be served.

The organization for the campaign consisted of four divisions as follows:

Division A—S. C. Cunningham, captain.

Division B—H. L. Boatwright, captain.

Division C—W. H. Price, captain.

Division D—Archibald D. Keen, captain.

These commanders had assembled their associate workers and chosen young men who have heretofore worked efficiently in these or in other canvasses. A spirit of friendly rivalry naturally existed among the teams and this was fostered by the challenges and the pleasantries exchanged among the leaders.

At the head table, say the officers—President Jordan, Chairman W. T. Gravelly and General Secretary Edwin Kettle—and also the Rev. J. M. Shelburne, D. D., the Rev. J. N. D. Parker, D. D., and the Rev. C. J. D. Parker, Mr. Parker asked a blessing before the meal, after which the diners lay too and concentrated their attention on "the east."

When the gastronomic feature had been handled in effective style, President Jordan was presented by Mr. Kettle with the plea for tolerance that he had never been known to speak more than half hour. Mr. Jordan invited any one to buy a tumbler at him if he spoke over five minutes, and with his audience thus reassured, he delivered himself of the optimistic exhortation to his associates, already summarized.

Then "Commodore" Gravelly, vice-chairman and an efficient division commander in other campaigns, now promoted to the Board of Strategy, took charge of the meeting. The first thing he did was to call for a song which was given with a will, M. B. Ramos at the piano and he and Mr. Gravelly leading.

Division Captain S. C. Cunningham was called upon to say something, and he did. He complimented the pugnacity of his warriors and with an air of quiet assurance awaited and even invited challenges, but the best hit of his bunch in this confident attitude. Incidentally, he had the largest percentage of his workers on their toes and ready for the starter's shot.

Captain H. L. Boatwright, a veteran of many campaigns and a honored former president of the association, did not brag on the beauty of his boys, but expressed confidence that they were there with the goods. He intimated that when the finish came Kettle would not be worrying at their position in the race.

Chairman Wade Hampton Pierce, of Division C, was regrettably detained by sickness at his home, but W. H. Winkler was spokesman for the division. He modestly disclaimed experience, but pledged the best division could do. He regretted the absence of "Cap" Pierce, but hoped he would be in the fracas today.

Last of the four captains, Commander Archibald D. Keen, of Division D, with his accustomed gaiety, paused to pay appreciative tribute to the ladies serving and to explain that his activities had been heretofore for some time devoted to the "Y. W." group. He made no threats and issued no warnings, but did not impress his hearers as fearful of being the tortoise in the race. Many of the veterans are successful warriors, and his youngsters are built for running.

All the teams were clamping the bit and were obviously being held under a pull, but they will be given the rein today and told to beat it for the finish line.

It developed that the association has an enrolled membership on March 1st of 877, leaving a margin of 123 to go to make the 1,000 mark. Most of the present membership must be canvassed for renewals, but usually about 85 or 90 per cent of these are re-signed. This will require the workers to sign up something like 200 or more new members or former members not now enrolled.

List of present membership whose renewals are to be solicited and of material on which to work as a nucleus in the canvass for new members were distributed among the teams and by them sub-divided among the workers.

The four teams of about 50 men in the aggregate will comb the town today and will endeavor to sign up all possible members. The Lynchburg association has just closed a campaign in which they totalled a membership of more than 2,100, with a goal of 2,000, a fact which was cited to stimulate the Danville workers.

BASKET BALL SEASON ENDS

The Senior Sunday School Basketball League played its final games last week. In one of the best seasons that this league has enjoyed. The seven teams entered proved loyal and fought hard and clean for each game played. Calvary repeated their triumph of last year and carried off the pennant, but met stiff opposition from Episcopal, Mount Vernon and Presbyterian. Episcopal finishing only one game back of the leaders. The final standing:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Calvary	11	1	.917
Episcopal	10	2	.833
Mt. Vernon	9	3	.750
Presbyterian	5	7	.417
Christian	4	4	.500
Baptist	3	9	.250
Main Street	3	9	.250

Plans are underway for the annual banquet that is given those participating in these games.

The Junior League will play their final games of the season on Monday night of next week, the games being transferred from Saturday night on account of the High school minstrel.

How Juniors Stand.

Some interesting and hard fought games were played by the Juniors on Saturday night in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. The defeat of the leading Mt. Vernon team by the Christian was the surprise of the evening, some sensational long shots by Flynn and Shelton caused Mt. Vernon to go down to defeat and cost them their position at the head of the league. The score of 13 to 3 doesn't indicate the hard fight that was put up by the losers. Calvary by smothering Moffett Memorial by the score of 10 to 2, jumped into the league leadership. Mt. Vernon was the high scorer with seven field goals.

Presbyterian defeated Main Street by the score of 4 to 2. This was a battle royal between the two cellar champions.

Another upset was the defeat of Episcopal by the Baptists, the score of 8 to 7 shows the hard fight put up by both teams for victory.

League Standing.

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Calvary	10	1	.909
Mt. Vernon	9	2	.820
Christian	9	3	.750

DANVILLE "Y. W." BE REPRESENTED AT CONVENTION

The Danville Young Women's Christian Association will be represented at the Seventh National Biennial Convention of that body at Hot Springs, Arkansas, April 20-27, by Mrs. Archibald D. Keen, president of the Board of Directors, Miss Lucy Lee Fitzgerald, chairman of the Industrial committee, and Miss Caroline Arbush of the staff.

According to the General secretary, there is a great deal of interest among the membership because of the international trend of the program. Noted speakers are to be brought to America to interest their respective countries.

Prominent among the foreign speakers who will address the convention are Miss A. Maud Royden, England's most noted authority on women and the world's best known woman preacher, Miss Elaine Gobbi, Alvela of Belgium, a poet, writer and speaker of rare charm; Miss Anne Lamb of Catecuta, an Anglo-Indian, now in America after a trip around the world, and Miss Charlotte Niven, of London, general secretary of the World's committee.

There is a probability of a notable delegation from South America, and in the student assembly, which is one of the sectional groups of the convention, there will be native Chinese and Japanese delegates.

Judge Florence A. Lee, of Cleveland, the first woman judge in the United States to adorn the bench in a court of general jurisdiction in civil and criminal cases will be one of the distinguished Americans on the program. Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the National board, will give a summary of the work done in the past two years. "Facing the present" is the subject of Miss Mabel Cratty's address. Miss Cratty is general secretary of the National board. Mrs. Frederic MacKey Paist of Philadelphia, president of the convention, will preside until her successor is elected. Over 2000 delegates are expected.

MINSTREL IS BENEFIT

The Danville High school minstrel performances on Friday and Saturday nights of this week are being presented for the benefit of the High school athletics and the literary magazine.

The show is a good one and all those attending will get their money's worth in fun. The jokes are good, the end men ready to tell 'em, the boys have their voices in tune, the songs are pretty, the dancing is new and just right and the entire performance is above par. The minstrel after-noon, "Oh, Doctor," under the direction of Mrs. Henry Leigh, promises to be a big hit.

Washington monument cost $1,300,000.

THE MERRY JOURNEYS of MARY JANE

The Queen of the Fairies Tells Mary Jane a Secret

"I'm going to tell you the greatest secret in the world" the Queen says to Mary Jane.

QUEEN MAB, queen of all the fairies, met Mary Jane one day beside the little spring under the great oak tree. The Queen was in her golden coach, drawn by a pair of crickets. She stopped at the spring to leave orders with Mr. Bull Frog to get his orchestra together for a big dance that night under the wild rose bush.

Queen Mab gave Mary Jane her hand to kiss. This, you know, is always the way queens do with their loyal subjects.

Then she got out of her chariot and sat down on the grass and had a long talk with Mary Jane. Finally she said "Mary Jane, I've known you a long while, and I know you never tell a secret to anybody—except your mam— and papa, and little Bobby and the boys and girls up at your school. What do you think? I'm going to get married."

Mary Jane said "Isn't that wonderful! To whom?" Queen Mab told her to King Minzie Michelewska, who was the handsomest, most wonderful fairy king in all the world.

Then the Queen told Mary Jane just how she was going to be dressed—all in white, with a beautiful lace train, and a big string of pearls, and everything. And then the Queen asked Mary Jane to be bridesmaid at the wedding. And Mary Jane said she would.

Then Dotty Dots, the big turtle, came along and took Mary Jane up on his back, and Mary Jane and the fairy Queen rode home and had a delicious supper of golden brown biscuits with Mary Jane Syrup all over them, and some of the most delicate gingerbread you ever ate—made with Mary Jane Syrup.

Then the fire-flies came to light the way, and Queen Mab kissed Mary Jane good night, and went back to her castle.

"I WANT TO BE GOVERNOR TO BURY BOSSES AND BARROOMS"—PINCHOT

GIFFORD PINCHOT has re-entered politics, after an absence of eight years, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania. He is State forester and since 1910 has been president of the National Conservation association. He is nationally known for his life-long fight for forest conservation. He was a militant friend and lieutenant of Theodore Roosevelt.

At the request of NEA Service, Pinchot has written his views of the nationally significant aspects of the political tangle created in Pennsylvania by the death of two United States senators, one being Boies Penrose, last of the old machine bosses.

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
PHILADELPHIA, March 21.—Bosses and barrooms have done more harm in political government than any other two single things. The boss is a dead institution, and the saloon ought to be. I am running for governor to prove it—to bury both.

Woman as a voting power signalizes the passing of both, not only in Pennsylvania, but nationally.

When Senator Penrose died America's last political boss passed. There never will be another such one-man rule. Pennsylvania was the last political monarchy in the United States.

Half a dozen little bosses—one-time lieutenants of Penrose—are trying to step into his shoes. But they don't fit. These minor bosses haven't a chance, because when death broke Penrose's grip the people woke up to a new freedom. They discovered they could run things themselves.

Nothing that most people overlook, however, is that even Penrose was beginning to slip as a political boss.

When women came into politics it meant one-man rule was bound to fail. You can't boss a lot of women like you can men. They won't stand for it. And it is a happy thing.

Women are only beginning to exert themselves as the most powerful single factor in politics. In Pennsylvania, the last rock on which bossdom stood, they are going to participate in a State primary for the first time. By coincidence, Penrose died just before this big test. So now, for the first time in history, the people of Pennsylvania are going to pick their own candidates.

Some people saw women are not enthusiastic about politics and they won't take advantage of the power they've got. I don't believe that. I believe they know they've got the last word in politics, and will use it.

Their basis of judgment is different than men's. They are interested in moral issues. The biggest is the saloon.

Pennsylvania saloons are still licensed by the State. In effect that is a license to bootleg, and the saloons have a semblance of legality. But everybody knows a man can't pay a license fee of $1,000 a year and sell beer and liquor.

I have been in favor of prohibition many years. My chief plank in this campaign is to drive out the saloon. Also I want a real State enforcement.

When Penrose lived nominees were his. "The honor is out."

And the Republican party, once omnipotent, is divided against itself. Five of us, all State officials, are running for the nomination for governor.

Adding spice to the unprecedented situation is the fact that both United States senators died last year, and four men are running for three senatorial vacancies—five years remaining of the Penrose term, the balance of the Knox term ending next March, and the full term succeeding it.

The country ought to keep an eye on Pennsylvania this year. What happens here, the last trench of the political boss, will be indicative of the new freedom in politics.

LORENZ REPEATS FAMOUS FEAT

DETROIT, Mich., March 21.—Dr. Adolf Lorenz, Austrian orthopedist, repeated here today, the Lolita Armour operation which brought him international fame 29 years ago. The operation, which was performed with an incision and required but ten minutes, was pronounced a success. The patient was a six year old girl.

The operation, to rectify a congenital dislocation of the hip, through the manipulation of the bones, muscles and ligaments, was first performed in this country, it is said, when Dr. Lorenz was brought to America by J. Ogden Armour, the Chicago packer, in an attempt to cure his daughter.

Dr. Lorenz performed three other operations today, the first since he opened clinics here Monday.

PEERY NOMINATED BY DEMOCRATS

BRISTOL, Va.-Tenn., March 21.—George C. Peery, lawyer, of Tazewell, Va., and chairman of the Ninth Virginia district Democratic committee, was today nominated by the Democratic district convention here to be the party's candidate for Congress.

The convention was the largest ever held by the Democrats in the district. More than 400 men and women delegates were present. Former Governor Henry C. Stuart made the keynote speech and acted as temporary and permanent chairman of the meeting. The election takes place next November.

BURBANK'S BETTER GARDEN TIPS GARDEN SEEDS

ARTICLE NO. 3

LUTHER BURBANK IN HIS GARDEN

BY LUTHER BURBANK
World's Greatest Scientific Agriculturist

MANY of the common mistakes of the beginner are made in planting. A few suggestions may help materially in avoiding them:

First of all—GET GOOD SEEDS! Like all good things they are cheaper in the end.

If flowers are to be grown the beginner is likely to have the best success with "hardy annuals"—such flowers as zinnias or marigolds—but in the event that other plants are desired the amateur would do well to start his seed in boxes.

To prepare the boxes use leaf mold in mixing the earth and provide holes in the bottom for the drainage of water. Put the boxes in sheltered places, protecting them from direct sunlight. When the seedlings appear—and particularly when the fourth leaf has appeared—transplant them, either in another box or the garden. When well up thin the plants according to the variety.

Covering seeds too deeply is a common mistake and should be avoided, particularly in the case of flowers. When boxes are used and precautions taken very little earth is needed over the seeds and, in some cases, practically none. This will be later referred to.

But, at all events, do not make careless seed purchases if you wish the full benefit of your time and trouble.

THE first question of the beginner generally is: "What should I plant?" The amateur, with a small plot of ground, will find a good vegetable assortment to consist of some of the following plants: Beets, onions, lettuce, carrots, radishes, parsnips, asparagus, and, in mild climates, artichokes.

Do not attempt to grow in a small garden such vegetables as corn, squash, pumpkin, melons and similar plants, all of which take up too much space.

Beets, onions and radishes are particularly easy to grow.

In arranging the beds remember to keep your paths as straight as possible and plant in rows from 12 to 18 inches apart. It is well to plan the garden paths in advance, always remembering that you must reach all parts of it without tramping upon the plants.

(Tomorrow Burbank tells how to raise asparagus and the flower garden.)

TRIAL OF DODGE IS POSTPONED

KALAMAZOO, Mich., March 21.—The trial of John Duval Dodge, charged with driving a motor car while intoxicated was interrupted late today when Mrs. Dodge suffered a nervous breakdown and was taken to a hospital. At the request of Harry C. Howard, Dodge's attorney, an adjournment until tomorrow was taken. The prosecution had concluded presentation of its case and two defense witnesses had been called.

The prosecution's chief witness were Britt Preston, deputy sheriff, who arrested Dodge after a joy ride March 11, and Patrolman Sherwood Heywood. Both declared he was intoxicated and Preston alleged Dodge attempted to talk confidentially with him after the arrest.

DIVORCE CONTRACTOR FURNISHES EVIDENCE

NEW YORK, March 21.—Jack Berkowitz today was arrested and held in $10,000 bail on a charge that he was head of a syndicate contracting falsely to furnish evidence for divorces in New York state, where the only ground is infidelity.

One of the allegations made against him by Samuel L. Chess, a lawyer in whose office he was arrested, was that he employed professional actors made up to resemble his victims, and that these "understudied" then were caught in compromising situations. Chess ## also charged that Berkowitz had boasted of furnishing co-respondents.

AMERICAN WOMEN ARE CARELESS

Women are too apt to overestimate their strength and overtax it. With feeling well they take unnecessary chances, which in the long run cost much pain and trouble. Wet feet, exposure to cold, lifting heavy burdens which cause no end of suffering. It is the Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that is the unfailing remedy in such cases. Thousands of American women will testify to this fact who have regained health and strength by its use. If you are suffering it will pay you to give it a fair trial—adv.

Uncle Sam Puts Concrete Roads First

No one has better facilities for determining the past performance of roads of all kinds in all parts of the country than the United States Government.

The Government approves the types of construction to which it will lend its aid, and in an overwhelming majority of instances it has approved Concrete.

Cooperating with the states, the Government has approved in the past five years expenditures totaling $229,000,000 for three kinds of pavement—Concrete, brick and bituminous. Of this, $184,000,000, or more than 80 per cent, has been invested in Concrete. That represents 79.3 per cent of the mileage paved.

Any community that selects Concrete for its highways is fully sustained in its choice by the observation and experience of the Federal Government.

BARNER SAYS HE WAS AFRAID TO GO ABOUT ALONE

Had Such Terrible Dizzy Spells He Fell and Was Seriously Injured—Now Well and Strong Again After Thirty Years of Suffering.

"I'm a believer in Tanlac for it certainly put an end to thirty years' stomach trouble for me," said J. E. Barner, 15 Maple St., Petersburg, Va. "I don't believe anybody ever suffered any more from indigestion than I did. Sometimes I would have an attack and the cold sweat would run down my face. I had awful dizzy spells and once fell and broke four of my ribs. After this I was afraid to go around by myself.

"Every three or four days I would have an awful attack of indigestion and would have to lay off from work. Tanlac has helped me both in health and pocketbook. The fact is, it has made a brand-new man out of me."

Burglars Steals Original Mss. of Famed Composers

Works of Beethoven, Bach, Schubert Taken from Music House of Breitkopf & Hartel.

NEW YORK, March 21.—Original manuscripts of musical compositions by Beethoven, Bach, Schubert, Schumann and other famous composers were stolen from the offices of Breitkopf & Hartel, one of the oldest classical music publishing houses in the city, at No. 22 West 38th street, early yesterday morning in a burglary in which the latest tools were used. Other valuable manuscripts of old classical pieces and contracts were torn in small scraps and strewn about the office. Articles valued between $10,000 and $15,000 were carried away.

Not satisfied with the booty of the musical publishers, the robbers chiseled a hole through a six-inch concrete floor of the outer office and by means of a rope ladder lowered themselves to the first floor, occupied by the Thomas McGinnis Company. A large quantity of cloth was damaged. The safe was opened with an electric torch attached to wires connected with a socket on the upper floor. Cash bonds, checks and papers were carried to the second floor, where the undesirable articles were left.

An elaborate system of signals connected to storage batteries was established on both floors to warn the robbers of their approach at either entrance. Both firms subscribe to a private detective agency, subject to intermittent guard, but the main entrance to the ground floor was protected with an additional lock to give the thieves ample time to escape. A case any one attempted to open a ladder from an open window on the second floor provided a hasty exit.

It is apparent that the robbery was leisurely, lasting several hours, and the police believe it had been planned weeks in advance. The part which greatly puzzled the detectives was the large number of cracksmen's tools of the latest models. They were all new and of considerable value. That they were well protected from the rainy weather of Saturday night was evident by the fact that none of them showed a sign of moisture.

There was every indication that entrance had been made through a door on the staircase. The heavy glass window pane had been removed and then carefully replaced from the inside. Exit was through a window of the stockroom.

Officials of the music publishing firm believe the papers were stolen through malice when only a comparatively small sum of money was found to reward the robbers for their time and trouble.

THREE WHISKY STILL ON SHERIFF'S FARM

WILMINGTON, N. ## Ship Board Rejects Cargo Fleet Bids

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Chairman Lasker announced today that the Shipping Board has rejected all bids for his big set of cargo vessels opened on March 14. The bids opened, he said, cover offers on only about 100 ships. The entire set was advertised for sale.

"The bids indicate," said Mr. Lasker, "that there is no present market in the United States for ocean-going tonnage. I doubt that as much as $15,000,000 is available for investment in it in this country, though our advice indicates that as much as $50,000,000 pounds sterling are available for this purpose in Britain. Unless Congress establishes a definite policy for aiding the merchant marine, there will be no market for the cargo set."

Ku Klux Klansmen Appear at Church

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 21.—Entering the United Brethren church at Williamsport during the Sunday night service, two white-robed members of the Ku Klux Klan delivered a message to the pastor, the Rev. J. Charles Gardner, who had just concluded a sermon on the "Invisible Empire." The figures silently entered the sanctuary and advanced to the altar. The pastor came down from the pulpit and received the message from one of the men, who retired as silently as they came.

The unexpected appearance of the klansmen at first startled some persons in the congregation, but there was no demonstration. Some strange men supposed to have been members of the organization, were observed in the congregation. The pastor read the message, which was typewritten on a sheet of paper bearing the official heading and insignia of the Invisible Empire. The message read: "Lovers of law and order, peace and justice, duty without fault, without fear and without reproach, greetings: We, the Invisible Empire, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, cheerfully and freely make this small contribution with but one regret, that it is not more, from an organization whose marked features are dignity and decency. It unfolds a spiritual philosophy that has to do with the very fundamentals here and hereafter."

Mr. Gardner had preached a sermon by request from the text, "The Empire of Christ in contrast with the Invisible Empire of the Ku Klux Klan." The appearance of the white-robed members of the organization was a fitting climax to the pastor's denunciation of the Klan, based upon facts obtained from literature issued by the organization.

Talley Verdict Is Set Aside

GREENSBORO, N. C., March 21.—Judge J. F. Long, presiding over Superior court, yesterday morning set aside his verdict returned by the jury in the case of E. S. Mitchell, administrator for the late W. T. McCuiston, Greensboro policeman, against Carl Talley and his wife, Mrs. Ethel K. Talley.

The jury's verdict was that Mr. Mitchell should recover no damages from Talley as a result of Mr. McCuiston's death. Judge Long set aside the verdict on the ground that it was rendered contrary to the greater weight of the evidence and against the instruction of the court. The case will be heard at a future term.

The case tried yesterday grew out of the killing of Mr. McCuiston last May. Carl Talley was in the automobile from which the bullet was fired that killed the policeman. Talley fled and is now an outlaw. Attorneys for Mr. Mitchell, the administrator, instituted suit against Talley to recover $25,000 damages for what they alleged to be a wrongful killing. Talley's home in Spray, Rockingham county, and $8,111 in the Greensboro National bank were then attached by the plaintiff.

Then came Mrs. Talley, as an intervenor, asking the court (Judge Webb) to vacate the attachment on the ground that it would not lie. The judge sustained the motion. An appeal to the Supreme court was taken, resulting in the higher court overruling Judge Webb.

But since that time Lewis Edwards was tried and convicted of killing Mr. McCuiston. Following in the wake of his conviction, attorneys for Mrs. Talley made a motion Monday afternoon to have the attachment vacated on the ground that the affidavits in the case were false to wit: Carl Talley did not kill McCuiston inasmuch as the court and Edwards guilty of the charge. No decision was rendered by the judge Monday afternoon. Tuesday morning attorneys for both sides told the judge that they could adjust the matter inasmuch as Mrs. Talley and Mr. Mitchell were concerned. In the adjustment, the attorneys for Mr. Mitchell agreed to release to Mrs. Talley the home place and a portion of the money in the bank here.

Wishing for sleep is a poor way to get it.

A LITTLE wisdom in the daytime is a better assurance of rest than any amount of anxious wishing when nerves are a-jangle at night.

What you do at noon often has more influence on sleep than what you want and hope for, at midnight.

Coffee's drug element, caffeine, whips up the nerves, and when its use is continued there's usually a penalty which no amount of mental effort can avoid.

The part of wisdom, as so many thousands have found, is to turn away from nerve-stimulation and adopt rich, delicious Postum as the mealtime drink. Postum delights the taste, but brings no disturbance to nerves or digestion. Even the little children can share in the enjoyment of Postum at any meal.

It's better to anticipate warnings than to be driven by them.

It's better to encourage and preserve sound nerves and complete health than to listen to the clock ticks at night and say, "I wish!"

You can get Postum wherever good food or drink is sold and served. An order today may be the beginning, for you, of the great satisfaction and comfort which so many others have found in Postum.

Your grocer has both forms: Instant Postum (in tins) made instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages of larger bulk, for those who prefer to make the drink while the meal is being prepared) made by boiling for 20 minutes.

Officials Worst Of Law Violators Says Sen. Walsh

Senator from Montana Issues Scathing Report on Department's Alleged Illegal Practices.

Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, Democratic member of the Senate judiciary committee, has startled his colleagues by the scathing terms of his report covering alleged illegal practices of the Department of Justice under former Attorney General Palmer. The abuse of power charged against the department at that time, is disregarding the constitutional prohibition against search and seizure without warrant. Walsh warns, is reflected today in a situation of grave danger to our national life, both official and private.

By THOMAS J. WALSH, U. S. Senator from Montana. WASHINGTON, March 21.—Lawlessness in the Department of Justice was bad enough before Mr. Palmer's time, but it reached a tremendous impetus through the utterly illegal and flagrantly inhuman raid he ordered.

This example is still exerting an evil influence in our national life, official and private.

The most dangerous form of lawlessness is that committed by officials of the law. If the attorney general of the United States can violate the constitution, defy the statutes and disregard decisions of the Supreme Court, what can you expect from lesser officials and the people?

An enormous amount of lawlessness is prevalent in connection with the prohibition statutes. For that very reason, officials should scrupulously obey the law themselves in enforcing law. When they do not, as they frequently don't, particularly in the matter of search and seizure, they are inculcating disregard for law.

A man with a bottle of bootleg whiskey secured by unlawful means may chuckle over his possession. An enforcement officer may feel he is justified in seizing that bottle even by illegal methods. Both are wrong.

It is easy to conduct violations when results favor your own interests or beliefs. The director of a great industrial corporation may give his approval when the officials of a labor organization are riddled without warning, or a meeting of strikers is unlawfully suppressed.

On the other hand, these same workingmen or the public at large may feel grieved when secret service agents of the Department of Justice break into the office of that same corporation, director without warrant or notice, to secure evidence, let us say, but for unlawful trade conspiracy.

Both sides forget that a much greater principle is at stake than the issues involved in any particular instance. Both are breeding a disrespect for law and undermining the foundations of ordered social life.

This spirit leads men, both individually and in groups, to take the law into their own hands. Hence we have murder, lynchings, race riots, mob violence.

You can find just as fine principles as exist in our constitution in the constitution of countries like Mexico. But they don't mean anything, because from the beginning they never have been respected by government officials. It follows naturally that the common people will not respect them.

The principles defended in my report—the freedom of speech and assembly, the right of people to be secure against unreasonable searches and seizures—have been the proud boast of our nation from its foundation. We have claimed they were the vital things which distinguished a free democracy from a despotic monarchy.

And these principles must be living factors in our national life if the grave industrial, economic, social and financial problems we have to meet are to be settled by orderly constitutional means and not end in revolution.

ROCKY MOUNT NEWS.

ROCKY MOUNT, Va., March 21.—William L. Powell, of near Rocky Mount, died Saturday, March 18, at the age of 75 years, in his home with complications of disease. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Powell, of near Penn Hook, Franklin county. He was a consistent member of the Christian church, and a brave Confederate veteran, serving throughout the civil war with distinction, being a Lieutenant. He was not quite 16 years of age when he volunteered with regiment 57, Co. B, infantry, with Capt. Vincent Wheeler. He was a prosperous farmer, and beloved by a large circle of relatives and friends. He is survived by his wife, who was Miss Kate Hunt, of near Doe Run, and three sons, Messrs. C. R. and D. E. of Albion, O., and H. E. of Rocky Mount, and one brother, Charles R. Powell, of Penn Hook. Interment Sunday afternoon in the Pleasant Hill cemetery, services conducted by his nephew, the Rev. George E. Powell, a Methodist minister, assisted by Walter St. Clair, in the absence of his pastor, the Rev. Arthur Wake. The floral designs were beautiful.

The regular monthly meeting of the board of supervisors of Franklin county met today in the auditorium of the courthouse with the regular routine of business. The State aid for good roads for 1932 will be used on two roads leading from Turner Martin's store to Whit and the other one from Scruggs to Redwood. The matter of considering getting a farmer demonstration for Franklin county was carried over to the April meeting.

Mrs. Nannie Cooper, who has been residing in Roanoke for the past year, has returned to Rocky Mount, where she will reside in the future. Her many friends and her daughter, Mrs. S. G. Bailey, of Bluefield, accompanied her to Rocky Mount, and will remain until the latter of this week.

every field voting overwhelmingly in favor of a suspension. Indications were that nine tenths of the miners favored the walkout.

A formal call for a suspension of work by all union coal miners, issued today from the headquarters here of the United Mine Workers of America, "directs all members of the organization employed in and around the anthracite and bituminous coal producing districts to discontinue work and cease production of coal at midnight on Friday, March 31, 1932."

The suspension, the order added, would continue "until terminated by action of the policy committee of the United Mine Workers of America" and until officers of the 3,000 union locals scattered throughout the country have been advised of the committee's action.

Further, the order, said in part: "In accordance with district and local agreements, local unions must permit a sufficient number of men to remain at work to insure the proper care and protection of all mining property. Pumps, engineers and others necessary to protect the property must be allowed to remain at work. The fullest co-operation must be given mine management in order to safeguard and protect property, and under no circumstances should this rule be violated or set aside by local unions."

The union's policy committee will meet next Friday at Cleveland to consider plans for the conduct of the suspension and the concluding paragraph of the call admonished miners regarding their conduct during the suspension. This paragraph reads:

"The present situation in the mining industry calls for the exercise of good judgment, moral courage and loyalty by every member of the United Mine Workers of America. Order and procedure must be followed at all times. There must be no violation of law, no disturbance of any public peace. Be guided in all your actions by the policies of your organization and follow out the instructions and orders given you by the duly accredited officers of your union. Copies of the call were sent to every district of the union, except Nova Scotia, where it was said that the contract with the operators had already expired, but that arrangement had been made for the men continuing at work. Western Canada provinces, however, are included in the suspension order, as also every union coal field in this country."

NO ACTION UNLESS THE STRIKE DEVELOPS

WASHINGTON, March 21.—While the government has "not entirely" abandoned its efforts to get a settlement in advance of the coal strike called for April 1, particularly in the bituminous fields, and while the department of justice is studying possibilities of legal redress in case danger results to public peace and welfare, it was learned today in White House and cabinet circles that no action is contemplated unless the strike develops.

Secretary of Labor Davis, who has represented the government in direct negotiations in the industry, had no comment to make when word of the United Mine Workers' call for suspension of work on April 1 in both the bituminous and anthracite fields reached Washington, but Attorney General Daugherty indicated he was inclined to consider that the legal branch of the government might take some steps, particularly in case transportation derangement was occasioned after the strike was under way.

At the White House, along with the statement that the effort to bring about a national conference between the employers and the miners in the bituminous industry was still continuing notwithstanding almost complete refusal of the operators to cooperate, the existence of a great coal surplus was emphasized as a most important factor. The government's surveys indicated, it was said, that with production continuing in non-union fields, the surplus would prevent any shortage in industry, and should prevent any inflation of coal prices.

The government's concern with the anthracite situation was also great, because of the dependence of the coal supply on the relationship between the mine owners and their unionized employees. Mr. Daugherty, reviewing the legal aspects, and taking account of the fact that the government had threatened strike suspension last October declared that the coal strike had not reported a point where his responsibility began. He desired to know, he said, whether the government, capable of preventing disruption of railroad traffic by use of legal powers, could not also prevent the same disruption, if occasioned by shortage of coal.

The attorney general declared he was not sure that the operators or miners could be forced into conference to settle their dispute nor was he as yet certain that action could be taken by the government. He declared he knew of no law preventing a man or group of men from quitting their employment.

WAGE ARBITRATION BOARD IN SESSION

NEW YORK, March 21.—Failing to reach an agreement which would avert the general coal strike April 1, for which an order was issued from United Mine Workers' headquarters in Indianapolis today, the anthracite miners' and operators' wage arbitration committee of eight tonight ended its first conference here. Members of the committee declined to say whether the session pointed to an early adjustment of wage scale differences. The day "was devoted to maneuvering for position and tests of strength," one member asserted. In a formal statement, James A. Gorman, secretary of the committee, a neutral non-voting member, said: "We did not get beyond a general discussion of the nineteen wage demands of the United Mine Workers and the attitude of the operators as they defined when the miners presented their demands last week.

Coal Strike To Start March 31

Thus far, it was said, the operators have not offered any counter proposals. Their arguments today were based upon their announced determination that a decrease, rather than an increase in miners' wages, is the only compromise they will consider.

The conferences will be resumed tomorrow.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers' union, tonight declared that although the order to cease operation of the anthracite and bituminous mines is termed a "suspension," it is, in reality, a strike.

"The only difference in this case is that we will not begin paying strike benefits—not just yet," he said. "We are determined to continue the strike until we have attained our goal. We hope it will not be necessary to remain out more than a few weeks, but are prepared to keep the mines closed indefinitely."

LEWIS EXCEEDED HIS AUTHORITY, SAYS LEADER

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 21.—The call issued for a suspension of work by miners was declared to be premature by Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners, tonight. He asserted that John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers exceeded his authority in making the strike call before next Friday's meeting of the miners' national wage scale committee at Cleveland.

Farrington, who is the leader of the anti-Lewis faction within the union, declared that at the Cleveland meeting he and his followers including leaders from other states would insist for the right to negotiate separate state wage agreements with the operators.

No attempt will be made to operate Illinois coal mines in event of a strike April 1, James Burns, commissioner for the Illinois coal operators association said tonight.

Trinkle Appoints Deans Secretary

RICHMOND, Va., March 21.—Governor Trinkle, in Roanoke today, announced the appointment of Parke P. Deans, of Isle of Wight county, as secretary to the governor. The appointment of Mr. Deans was forecast in a local newspaper several days ago, but there was no official statement in regard to the matter until today.

Mr. Deans is a member of the house of delegates, representing Isle of Wight county. He was one of the principal leaders of the "dry" force in the house at the recent session. During the primary of last summer he was an ardent Trinkle supporter.

Failed Firm Has Booze Assets; Can Receiver Cash It?

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 21.—Can the receiver appointed by the courts to untangle the affairs of a defunct brokerage firm realize on liquid assets as substantial and literally characterized as a valuable warehouse receipt? It has presented a brand new problem to the authorities entrusted with enforcement of the Volstead act.

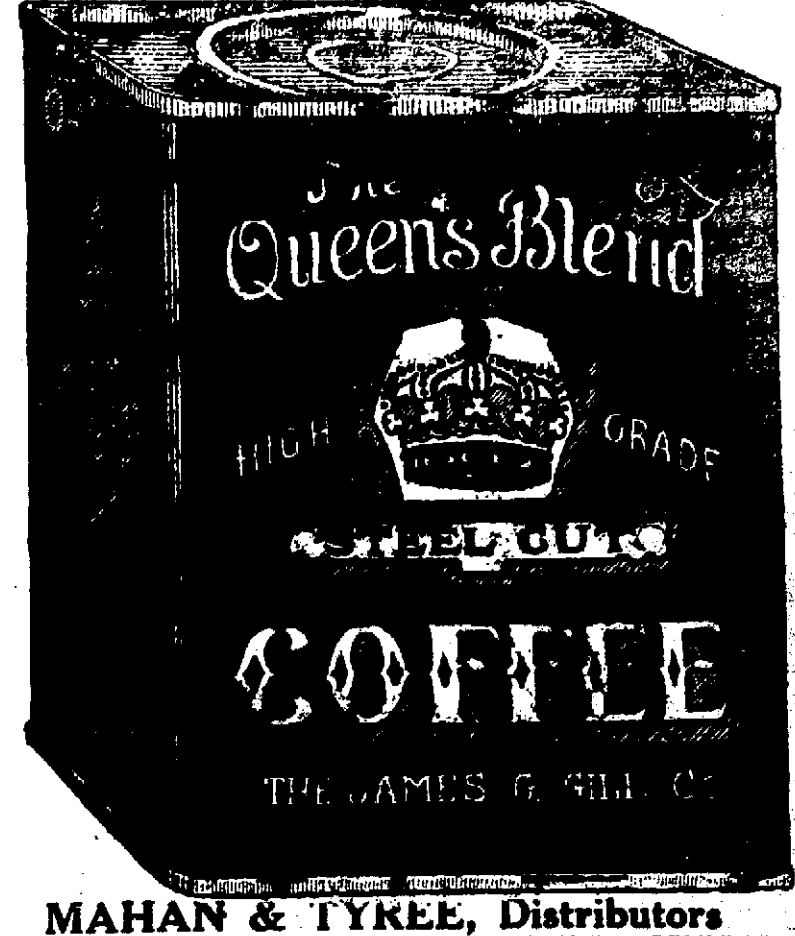

Six barrels of whiskey, a warehouse receipt for which was surrendered in lieu of cash, to cover an account with Cardos & Buarke, New York brokers, age house, with a branch office in Pittsburgh, have come into the keeping of Robert P. Stephenson, named receiver in New York. Bankruptcy proceedings were instituted against the firm last month.

When one of the customers of the firm was called upon for additional margin on his account, according to Attorney Arthur L. Ross, representing the firm, the customer admitted he had reached the limit of his cash reserve, but he turned over what he characterized as a valuable warehouse receipt.

When the receiver began to check up the securities in his hands, he ascertained the paper called for six barrels of good old rye. The question now puzzling authorities interested in the case is: Can the receiver cash in on this "100 per cent. proof?"

Moments Which Count

When you are conscious of the scrutiny of interested eyes which appraise every detail of your appearance, can you sit serene, secure in the consciousness that there is nothing to criticize but everything to admire?

Happy is the girl who can answer "yes" in these all important moments. She is the girl who knows that her fresh, clear skin and smooth, white neck and arms are sure to command admiration.

The girl who is not so sure of her personal attractiveness, who is conscious that complexion defects may affect her popularity, should waste no time remedying these conditions. The secret is cosmetic cleanliness, which keeps the skin free from clogging accumulations.

Once a day, do this

Once a day, preferably at bedtime, give your face a thorough cleansing. This doesn't mean a harsh, irritating scrub but a cosmetic cleansing accomplished by the gentlest possible means.

Soap is necessary, but only the mildest soap should be used. This is Palmolive, blended from palm and olive oils.

Once you experience the mild, soothing effect of its smooth, creamy lather you will recognize daily cleansing as the surest complexion beautifier.

Removal, once a day, of the accumulations of dirt, oil, perspiration and the remaining traces of cold cream and powder is absolutely essential to a clear, fresh skin.

Neglect results in clogged pores, coarse texture and blackheads. When the accumulated soil carries infection, pimples are the result.

An ancient secret

The value of beautifying cleansing was discovered long ago, in the days of ancient Egypt. It was Cleopatra's secret—whatever the embellishments she employed, they were applied after the daily bath with palm and olive oils as cleansers.

The great queen was famous for her beauty long after early youth was passed. She kept her looks with the aid of the same gentle, stimulating cleansing which we recommend today.

Blended from the same oils

Palmolive is blended from the same costly oriental oils which served Cleopatra as cleanser and beautifier. We import them from overseas in vast quantities to keep the Palmolive factories at work day and night. This is necessary to supply the world-wide demand.

This popularity has reduced price, as manufacturing volume permits economies which lower production costs. Thus we are able to supply Palmolive for only 10 cents a cake.

So while Palmolive ranks first as finest facial soap, you can afford to follow Cleopatra's example and use it for bathing.

Remember that complexion beauty does not end with the face, and beautify your body with Palmolive.

A LITERARY BOMBSHELL

A lively literary war is brewing over the recent and interesting discovery that 11 years before Daniel Defoe wrote his "Robinson Crusoe" of imperishable memory, a Dutch author had conceived a plot similar and published a thrilling narrative about the Mighty Kingdom of Krinke Kemes which is the exact counter-part of the English classic. Hendrik Smeekes was the author of the tale of Kemes abandonment on the desert isle from which he was later rescued, and a literary investigator who has gone to great pains to secure a close translation of the Dutch work has compared it painstakingly with Defoe's book and the similarity of situations between the two raises the question of whether or not Defoe is guilty of plagiarism.

Lucius Hubbard is the man who comes forward to sow the germ of suspicion in our minds after three hundred years during which Robinson Crusoe has been taken at its face value, and after it has played such an important part in our literary education. How many of us in our boyhood days shrank at the schoolwork and stole off with the precious volume to be absorbed for hours and to revel in the atmosphere created by Defoe's simple narrative so thrilling, as to impregnate our youthful thoughts and to inspire imagination? It is almost a sorrow to read that what has been, actually, all defunct.

Mr. Hubbard in his work does not charge enough that Defoe was a plagiarist for there are reasons and arguments which can be brought to bear to clear him of suspicion. Smeekes' book was published in Holland in the year 1710. Defoe's boy appeared in 1719 or 11 years later. Defoe, however, was a man of "unlimited station." He was not a writer of the "average" term but he apparently concerned himself in the lasting work of fiction and through native ability translated it to the volume which will live forever. It is hardly likely that he was a student of the Dutch or the Dutch language and it must be remembered that in that day when printing was in comparatively early stages there was no such thing as the wide translation of works appearing in other tongues. This is the strongest argument to support the argument that Defoe knew nothing of the Dutch work which so closely parallels the strange adventures of Robinson Crusoe.

It is also to be argued that two men cast upon a desert isle would face approximately the same experiences and the workings of imagination by two minds would be prone to run in parallel grooves. There is, according to Mr. Hubbard, an almost uncanny similarity between many of the depicted situations, although it is only fair to point out also that Defoe's book is considerably longer and more elaborate than is Smeekes'. Both the Dutch and the English castaways resorted to the same rules to live, both of them had a "famous dog" and, perhaps the striking of all the similarities both over long years of exile, were amazed to discover the footprint in the sand, precluding the discovery of other human beings on the island. Wrecks were thrown up on the island at a most propitious moment, affording new material for the abandoned men to improve the method of their existence.

Mr. Hubbard's book will arouse keen interest among authors in every clime for Robinson Crusoe is nearly as international as the Bible itself. It will be interesting to follow the deductions which will be drawn and from new lines of investigation of both Smeekes and Defoe in seeking to trace the possibility of plagiarism.

What really reduces reformers is worry over what they can't eat.

Scoop's Colyup

DRAKES BRANCH, March 22.—(Grapevine Wireless.)—Last day of the first half of the week; tail end of the Spring equinox.

Scout around the sanctum trying to discover who paroled the "Year Book of the United States Breweries Association" on Scoop's mahogany desk. Some mystery here. No doubt the editor was overcome with the thought of having to review the inactivity of the beer trade and bribed the janitor to pass the book to us. He has missed a lot of interesting reading for the book contains 152 pages besides the appendix which might easily be removed according to Dr. Nail. There are also quite a number of cartoons depicting Old Man Prohibition in distress and showing the flood gates open with illicit liquor flowing over the land of the free and the home of the brave. But after reading 96 pages we are unable to discover where all the vast supply of wet goods may be found. It just makes one thirsty without pointing the way to relief. We would like to locate just one quart to see what the stupor looks like. Nothing is said in the book about how much the brewers have saved in the last couple of years by not having to pay the high rents on saloons, and it may be from this source that the funds are derived with which to carry on the propaganda against an emancipated people. Any reader of The Bee desiring a copy of this interesting work may have it for the asking, just write to Hugh F. Fox, secretary, 30 Union Square, New York City.

Kidnapped, Says Butler, For Love Of Society Girl

Mrs. Eugene Orig Seeks Legal Separation from Fruit Importer.

NEW YORK, March 22.—A writ of habeas corpus, signed by Federal Judge Mack, was served yesterday at Ellis Island upon James F. Daly, representing Immigration Commissioner Robert E. Todd, calling for the bringing of August Probst, a Swiss citizen held on the island because of alleged insanity, before Federal Judge Knox tomorrow afternoon.

Two attorneys served the writ—Bernard Sandler, of No. 261 Broadway, and David Steinhardt, of No. 1540 Broadway. While neither lawyer would enter into the full details of the case, Mr. Sandler admitted, when interrogated, that Probst, who is 24 and a strikingly handsome fellow, will tell a most remarkable story when he has his say in court.

Both Mr. Sandler and Mr. Steinhardt assert the Swiss is entirely sane and he should be released under the usual bond of $500 in which aliens are held while investigation is made of their desirability as citizens.

The story that Probst's counsel say he will tell is that efforts are being made to get him out of America because he and a Pittsburgh girl of great wealth and social prominence are in love and want to marry, but the girl's father object to his station in life and therefore these relatives took the extreme measure of having him kidnapped and placed in the Ellis Island psychopathic ward in order to separate him from her.

The Pittsburgh girl, according to the story, is a very near kinswoman of a Pittsburgh multi-millionaire.

She is 19, good-looking and a college girl.

According to his sworn testimony, which was presented to Judge Mack in the application for the writ of habeas corpus, August Probst, also known as "Archie" Probst, was born in Bern, and came to this country June 1 last as a steward on the White Star liner Olympic. He had a friend in this city, one Max Zimmermann of the Swiss club, and through Zimmermann learned that the Rolling Rock Club, at Ligonier, Pa., near Pittsburgh, wanted a butler. He had worked in that capacity for the Ritz Hotel in London and was an experienced servant, so he went to Ligonier and got the job.

The Rolling Rock Club is said to be so exclusive that its membership roster is confined to 12 families, all millionaires and all highly placed social.

Continuing his sworn testimony, Probst asserted that he first got $65 a month, was raised to $90, in addition to which he got his meals and sleeping quarters and was able, therefore, to send money to his mother in Switzerland and to deposit $40 in the Ligonier Bank and $160 with his friend Zimmermann. Probst testified he speaks English, French and German and served with the army of his native country.

His attorneys assert—maybe he was too modest to do so himself—he is extremely good-looking and is a yodeler of high talent, in addition to which he plays the piano and is a general all-round athlete.

His affidavit then goes on in this fashion:

"On Feb. 22, 1922, early in the morning, a Mr. Thompson, who I am informed and believe is an official of the Rolling Rock Club, entered my sleeping quarters with a revolver in his hand, ordered me to dress and, without affording me an opportunity to obtain my personal belongings and with a gun pointed at my body, ordered me to walk out into the hall, where I was then seized by Mr. Gail, the manager, and Mr. Evans, an architect, both connected with the Rolling Rock Club, and, between the three persons, I was marched to the stable and kept there for an hour.

"I was then forcibly placed in an automobile by Gail and Evans and was taken to Latrobe and there placed on a trail bound for New York, guarded by Gail. When the train arrived at Philadelphia, two men, whom I believe to be private detectives in the employ of the club, boarded the train and I was brought into New York city and taken to a furnished apartment in West 137th street, where I was kept a prisoner for three days under guard.

"I was informed by my captors that a steamship ticket would be bought for me and the next ship would take me back to London and that I must never return to this country or ever go to Pittsburgh, or write any letters to any person I met at the Rolling Rock Club under pain of death.

"For some reason or other, Probst's testimony goes on, the detectives were unable to obtain from the Swiss consulate a visa for his passport, so he was released after promising not to have any communication with the Rolling Rock Club. Then he went to Trenton, N. J., where "Inspector McIntosh seized petitioner, at No. 1701 Liberty street, and displayed to petitioner a telegraphic warrant from Washington, issued by the assistant secretary of labor, dated February 27, 1922, wherein it was charged that petitioner was a person likely to become a public charge at the time of his entry into this country, and petitioner was brought to Ellis Island and placed in the detention pen awaiting deportation."

Probst's testimony said he was arranging with friends to raise a $500 bail bond, as is customary in such cases, when two Ellis Island physicians, Drs. H. G. Winslow, Jr., and M. F. Shuckley, examined him, concerning his mental condition, and he was placed in the psychopathic ward, where he still is. The findings of the doctors were quoted thus:

(1) That he is insane at the present time.

(2) Owing to our uncertainty of the mental condition of this alien at the time of his arrival in this country, a statement as to whether or not he was insane at that time is not in our opinion warranted.

(3) He could be deported without danger to life.

(4) He will require special care and attention en route in the event of deportation.

Probst concluded his appeal for a writ of habeas corpus in the following language:

"Your petitioner is being deprived of rights guaranteed by the constitution of the United States to citizens of friendly nations and is being deprived of the right to be admitted to bail, as he has been declared insane, which finding by the physicians your petitioner challenges."

In speaking of his working at the Rolling Rock Club, Probst said in his affidavit: "Your petitioner, during his employment there, became a favorite of all the guests of said club of both sexes."

That the nearest he came in his sworn testimony, to declaring that the reason for his alleged kidnapping was a love affair with the rich 19-year-old girl. But the story his attorneys said he will tell tomorrow is this:

He was taken up, almost at once, by many of the club members. He made a striking figure in his purple uniform and brass buttons, with his dark eyes and wavy black hair. He was taught to play golf and frequently made rounds with the millionaires and their feminine relatives. He became, because of his good looks and his ability to sing and yodel and play the piano, a great favorite with the younger girls.

The girl in question, he will assert, became especially fond of him, and he of her. So much so, indeed, he finally presumed to go to her mother and ask formally for the girl's hand in marriage. The girl's mother was shocked and distressed, and told her husband.

Another young Pittsburgh society girl, a chum of the one in question in this marriage, helped along the love affair of the little millionaire and the handsome Swiss mountaineer, it is asserted.

Attorney Steinhardt, who was first in the case calling in Sandler, later as associate counsel—made an affidavit, which he attached to Probst's and which was read also by Judge Mack in hearing the petition for the habeas corpus writ. In this document Mr. Steinhardt swore he attended a hearing in "Archie's" case on Ellis Island, March 7, and his answers to questions were clear and lucid. In the lawyer's belief, he swore, the Swiss is sane and should be released on a bail bond.

Feared Death If He Voted 'Guilty'

CHICAGO, March 21.—Because he was afraid he would be killed if he voted for a verdict of guilty in a murder case, Frank Lodarek, a mechanical engineer, was excused from jury service today. Lodarek had been called for jury duty in the case of Philip Fox and Morris Steuben, drivers for a taxi company, accused of the murder of Thomas Skirvin, driver of a rival cab.

Skirvin was killed during the taxi war between drivers. He was sitting on a bench in front of a cab station when a touring car containing five men drove past. They opened fire and Skirvin fell dead.

Canada, with nearly 40,000 miles of railway, has a larger per capita mileage than any other country in the world.

Motor car licenses of 274 persons in Pennsylvania were revoked and refused renewal this year.

Pennsylvania broke the world's record in constructing 615 miles of durable roads in 1921.

AMERICAN FARM EXPERT NEARLY STARVED TO DEATH IN RUSSIA

BY HARRY HUNT

WASHINGTON, March 22.—"The Soviet government is in no danger from its opponents within Russia. It has great popular support and all the initiative and enterprise are enlisted in the Soviet forces. In the opposition, there is neither energy nor moral force."

That is the opinion brought back to Washington by H. W. Truesdell, agricultural expert formerly with the United States Department of Agriculture, after 11 months in the service of the Soviet government.

Truesdell's views of life in Russia, however, are scarcely as glowing as his opinion of the stability of the present government. Although himself an official representative of the "All Russian Soviet People's Commissariat," he at times was weak from undernourishment.

30 DAYS ON CABBAGE

"I lived for one period of 30 days on cabbage and black bread," he explains. "And for a similar period I had a diet of only black bread and summer squash. The bread ration was limited to one pound a day. One could eat all the summer squash he could hold. But I often found that after I had eaten all I could of this diet I was still hungry. It filled one up, but didn't satisfy."

"In northern Russia, even in Petrograd and Moscow, Truesdell says, the people are living chiefly on black bread, soup made from grains and cooked grains and tea. Kasha, which is dried grains, chiefly wheat, barley and millet, is the staple food."

"There is much actual starvation and undernourishment and hunger most of the time I was in Russia."

As an expert on agriculture, concerning which he was employed to advise the Soviet government, Truesdell says Russia has much to learn. Before she can get production increased to meet the needs of her great population, she must accept modern methods to increase efficiency.

"The production per capita of farm workers is very low," he says, "even in times when climatic and crop conditions are good."

"In fruit growing, for instance, they still follow to a great degree the practice of hand spading the orchards. One good man in America, with American methods and implements, will do as much as from five to eight Russian workers.

"In an industrial way, small industries have been making rapid progress since the decision of the government to license small business."

SOVIETS DEVELOP ELECTRIC UTILITIES

"One of the great steps forward that has been taken under the Soviets is the electrification of all the larger cities. The electric utilities have been developed under Soviet control far beyond what they are in other European cities."

"Money is always a problem. Because of the tremendous issues of paper currency and its depreciation, its value is uncertain. In one week before I left Moscow, the price of bread—black bread—advanced from 8,000 to 25,000 rubles a pound. Partly this was due to the shortage of bread, partly to further depreciation of the ruble."

"Just before I left Moscow a new issue of paper currency was started, one ruble of which was equal in value to 10,000 rubles of any previous issue."

"Oddly enough, foreign currencies are worth more in Russia than gold coins of the same countries. That is due to the comparative ease in getting currency out of Russia, while it is almost impossible to get out any gold."

Today's Fashion Hints

Will She Wear Them?

WHAT will American women do will knickerbockers? Every smart shop in Fifth Avenue displays them. A good many smart women have been wearing them, with apparent pleasure. But not enough women, the country over, have yet adopted them to establish them firmly as a real vogue. And one wonders why, for there is no garment made which, when worn with smart accessories, is so delightfully jaunty looking. And it is a fact that when a woman knows she looks jaunty she automatically feels young. That they will, in another season or two, be really popular, is implied in a recent utterance of Gene Stratton Porter, America's most popular woman writer. Although not definitely discussing knickerbockers at the time, Mrs. Porter wore knickerbockers herself as she talked.

"Among a world of other tardy realizations the world has come to realize that every woman has two legs and that these legs in all probability are proportionate to the remainder of her frame," said Mrs. Porter. "There is no longer any curiosity concerning legs; they are absolutely prevalent—as common as arms or heads. And the world has consented that she may cover them with skirts breeches or Turkish trousers, as she pleases."

Then why does she hesitate to adopt the jaunty, comfortable, eminently sensible, yet ultra-smart knicker? Apparently she is still wondering whether or not they make her look too boyish. Will they destroy her feminine appeal? That, one fancies, is the question which gives her pause.

FUNERAL TRAPPINGS TO BE DISCARDED
NEW YORK, March 21.—Black gloves, somber funeral countenances and bleak, mournful undertaking parlors will be discarded hereafter by New York undertakers, if suggestions made today at the convention of the Associated Undertakers of Greater New York are adopted. The convention decided that an undertaker is a business man, and not necessarily a lugubrious individual with an appearance so gloomy as to betray his profession to the most casual observer. The convention also discussed a suggestion for decorating funeral parlors with tapestries and bright colored draperies.

The last tobacco sale of the season will be held in all of the warehouses tomorrow, with the exception of Planters', which is being prepared for the Piedmont Exposition, soon to open.

Today comparatively few wagons of tobacco had come in, but it was expected that during the course of the evening and night, the growers would here with their remnants, eager to take advantage of the warehousemen and the buyers of the various companies. The comparatively slow influx of tobacco today created a doubt if the weight of tomorrow's sales would be sufficient to put Danville over the 34 million mark for the season.

Will She Wear Them?

WHAT will American women do with knickerbockers? Every smart shop in Fifth avenue displays them. A good many smart women have been wearing them, with apparent pleasure. But not enough women, the country over, have yet adopted them to establish them firmly as a real vogue. And one wonders why, for there is no garment made which, when worn with smart accessories, is so delightfully jaunty looking. And it is a fact that when a woman knows she looks jaunty she automatically feels young. That they will, in another season or two, be really popular, is implied in a recent utterance of Gene Stratton Porter, America's most popular woman writer. Although not definitely discussing knickerbockers at the time, Mrs. Porter wore knickerbockers herself as she talked.

"Among a world of other tardy realizations the world has come to realize that every woman has two legs and that these legs in all probability are proportionate to the remainder of her frame," said Mrs. Porter.

"There is no longer any curiosity concerning legs; they are absolutely prevalent—as common as arms or heads. And the world has consented that she may cover them with skirts, breeches or Turkish trousers, as she pleases."

Then why does she hesitate to adopt the jaunty, comfortable, eminently sensible, yet ultra-smart knicker? Apparently she is still wondering whether or not they make her look too boyish. Will they destroy her feminine appeal? That, one fancies, is the question which gives her pause.

FUNERAL TRAPPINGS

NEW YORK, March 21.—Black gloves, somber funeral countenances and bleak, mournful undertaking parlors will be discarded hereafter by New York undertakers, if suggestions made today at the convention of the Associated Undertakers of Greater New York are adopted.

The convention decided that an undertaker is a business man, and not necessarily a lugubrious individual with an appearance so gloomy as to betray his profession to the most casual observer.

The convention also discussed a suggestion for decorating funeral parlors with tapestries and bright colored draperies.

Swiss, Held in Insane Pen on Ellis Island on U. S. Order, Gets Habeas Corpus Writ.

NEW YORK, March 22.—In faraway California a man, who less than three months ago was one of the most powerful forces in a $100,000,000 corporation, is seeking to build up a business in the importation of Hawaiian fruits.

Thousands of miles from him, on an island in the West Indies, a woman, mother of three young children, is planning how best she may legally sever her life from that of the man.

The man is Eugene W. Ong, until December 20 last, general counsel, director and "authoritative" vice president of the great United Fruit Company.

The woman is Mrs. Bessie Preston Ong, daughter of Andrew W. Preston, aged multi-millionaire founder of the United Fruit merger.

Mr. and Mrs. Ong have separated "finally and for good," their friends in the social life of New York and Boston assert.

The separation is an aftermath of disclosures of the disruption of the family of Walter Scott Penfield, of Washington, noted international lawyer, after a raid on an apartment in the Lafayette Hotel in Washington in October, 1920.

In the raid, Penfield alleged, he found his popular young wife, Mrs. Alice Lucille Bacon Penfield, in rooms registered for by Ong as "Walker Owen and wife."

Sturdy, powerful, mentally and physically, despite his 75 years, Andrew W. Preston is credited in shipping and social circles with the determination to banish from the family the former powerful "crown prince," as Ong was known to fellow executives in the fruit company. These executives, incidentally, suffered for years under the alleged autocratic "you-must-bow-to-me" rule of Ong.

The actual separation of the Ongs came two months ago. Ong packed his grips and departed for California. He visited his father, former Judge Walter Ong, in Cleveland, at the latter's treat, 131 Garfield street, Pasadena. Then he dropped in on his sister, Mrs. C. C. Broadwater, whose husband is vice president of the Merrill Metallurgical Company, of San Francisco.

Now he is said to be in San Francisco organizing a company in import pineapples and other fruits from the Hawaiian Islands.

The separation of the Ongs, it is said, followed dramatic interviews between Mr. and Mrs. Preston, their son-in-law, their daughter and other active principals in the Ong-Penfield scandal.

Over the Christmas season Mrs. Ong made a brave effort to live up to her expression at the now famous hotel conference in New York in October, 1920, when she cried, in the presence of her husband and of Mr. and Mrs. Penfield:

"Eugene is still my husband. He is still my husband. I believe in him." Then came further disclosures: advice from bankers in New York and Boston; and, finally, a long interview between Ong and Mr. and Mrs. Preston. This was followed, it is said, by an interview between Mr. Preston and Walter Scott Penfield.

Mr. Preston had made up his mind that, no matter what the cost, he must purge his household of a scandal that promised to engulf his own business career, as well as that of Ong and others.

Accordingly, the virile old president of the United Fruit Company, made up his mind. The result was that Ong left for California. Mrs. Ong packed up his persona effects and shipped to him everything that would remind her of him.

She closed her magnificent home near Boston, stopped for a day or two at her father's home, and on February 7 last left for New York. She was accompanied by her three children, a nurse and a maid. The next day, February 8, the party sailed on the United Fruit steamer Sixaola for Port Antonio, Jamaica.

Mrs. Ong and her children are now domiciled at the picturesque Hotel Titchfield, in Port Antonio. They expect to return in April. Then (and this part of the man was evolved by Mr. Preston) Mrs. Ong will institute proceedings for divorce. These proceedings probably will be instituted in Massachusetts.

There seems to be no doubt among the intimates of those involved in the case that Mrs. Ong has consented to sue for divorce. She already has talked to one of the leading lawyers in New York.

According to information reaching The Washington Times correspondent from authoritative sources, Mrs. Ong has solemnly pledged her father and the Lafayette Hotel in Washington in October, 1920.

No hint could be obtained today as to the future status of Mrs. Penfield, who dropped almost in a day from a proud position as leader in the capital social set to a woman harassed by innuendoes connecting her name with that of a married man.

At the New York hotel conference of the two couples (Ongs and Penfields) Mr. Penfield pounded the table and said to Ong:

"You must marry my wife! My suspicions have been confirmed. Now do the decent thing. You have robbed her of a name. You must give her another!"

Mrs. Penfield, with her 21-month-old daughter, Virginia, and her widowed mother, Mrs. Alice Bacon, of Omaha, Neb., was last reported in Florida. Her present whereabouts are unknown.

A Democratic View of George Harvey

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Some of the sins of the Republican Party as viewed by the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee are thus set forth in their majority report on the Ponies Bill.

So we are presented with the shameful spectacle of the party that aberrated the war, divided our country's war associates, disgraced the peace, deluded the people, deceived the veterans, deserted the wounded, deceived the profiteers, reduced the millionaire's income tax, repeated the excess profits tax on the profiteers, and which still maintains a blasphemous, bootlicker at the Court of St. James.

With his drunken banquet babble, the high war purposes of the American people and the inspiration of the American soldiers, now offering to redeem its reckless campaign pledges with an I. O. U., designated a "certificate," which the Administration has in advance of its issue, flatly impeached and discredited.
